

ADMITTING PATIENT IN HOSPITAL

DEFINITION

Receiving a patient for observation investigation ,diagnosis and care

To collaborate with patient in planning ,investigation and care

To collaborate with patient through history and physical

ARTICLES

Prepared bed

Observation tray

B/P apparatus

Weighing scale

Admission sheet

TRP sheet

Nursing assessment form

Nurses record

Progress record

Laboratory master sheet

Additional sheet as indicated

Body pan or urinal for males

Tissue paper

Bath towel or wash cloth

Procedure

Lower the bed and fold down the top sheet from bed

Arrange furniture for ease access to bed

Assemble special equipment e.g. oxygen cylinder

During Procedure

Receive patient and family cordially identify patient with the admission slip

Check the patient details such as payment unit and room assigned.

Introduce yourself and escort patient to the assigned room

- Check the patient weight and vital signs and record it
- Collect the history and add treatment room the toilet facility bathroom, drinking water supply, patient cup board do a simple physical examination and observe the general condition of the patient.
- Orient patient to the physical set up of the ward such as nurses station, drinking water

- Patients cup board call light kitchen,
- Also orients patient ward

- Explain the facilities available eg kitchen dietary department telephone, pharmacy safety rules relate to fire and accident etc..
- Explain the hospital policies, regarding visiting hours, gate pass, attendance staying with the patient and restriction in the ward
- Have family to leave unless they want to assist in undress the patient
- Provide privacy

- Initiate care which do not require physician order such as cold compress ,tepid sponge
- Give bath if needed and provide hospital gown
- Obtain specimens such as urine blood or any other to test if not already obtain
- Inform patient about procedures or treatments schedule for the next shift or day and clarify any questions
- Encourage patient to send valuables home and if patient prefer to keep them list them on a paper and have the family member to sign it

AFTER PROCEDURE

- Wash hand
- Record history and assessment findings in appropriate forms
- Notify the physician of arrival and report any unusual findings

THANKS GOD BLESS